

DEATH UNDER THE DELUGE

A SPIRIT ROAD MYSTERY BY
C. M. Wendelboe

A corpse is found lashed to a submerged cabin under the Missouri River just south of a Sioux Indian reservation... A corpse tied there perhaps seventy years ago... A corpse shot and tied there just before the river was flooded over a resort island first discovered by the Lewis and Clark Expedition...

FBI Agent Manny Tanno is assigned to assist local law enforcement in the decades-old homicide. Suspects abound including the owner of a trucking company and a long-dead Lakota Talker from the Army of World War Two.

And dangers abound as a deputy sheriff also investigating the case is murdered. Manny's life is threatened as he's repeatedly attacked, barely escaping death himself.

Will he survive to solve the cold case and the killing of the young deputy sheriff? Is there even a chance he can find the killer of the deputy? Or any chance the murderer of the floating man is still among the living? Manny must dodge bullets as he works to stay alive long enough to catch the killers.

Praise for Wendelboe's Spirit Road Mysteries:

"...exciting... seamlessly shifts between past and present, offering a number of finely delineated characters and a strong sense of life on the reservation and the beauties of a hostile land."

—Kirkus Reviews *Starred Review*

"Wendelboe's years in law enforcement lend verisimilitude to his writing, and the banter between characters adds humor."

—Publishers Weekly

MYSTERY

$16.99

ENCIRCLE
PUBLICATIONS

Facebook.com/encirclepub @encirclepub

ISBN 978-1-64599-480-0

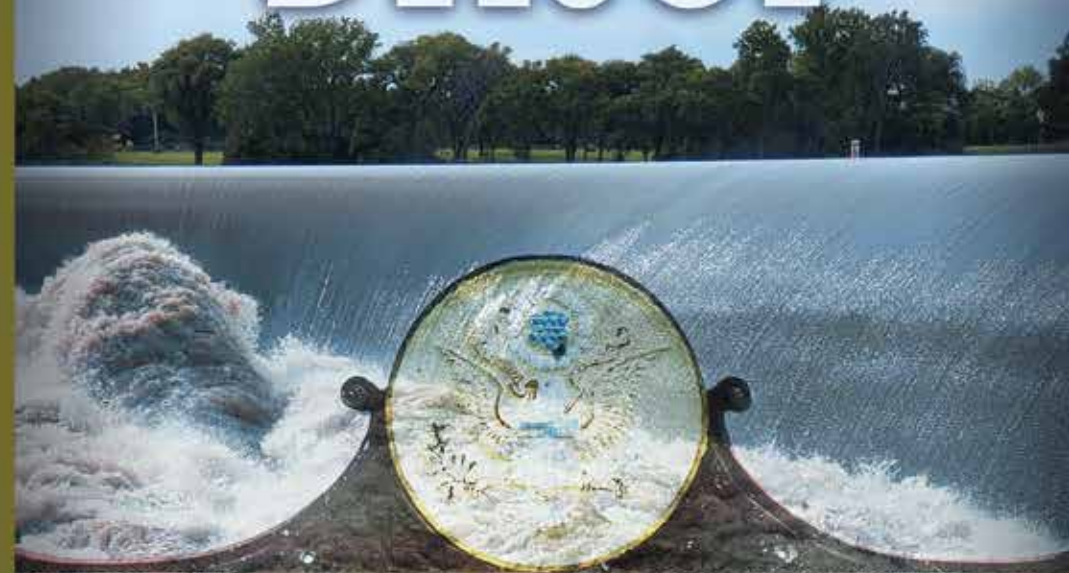

9 781645 994800

C.M.
WENDELBOE

DEATH UNDER THE DELUGE

DEATH UNDER THE DELUGE

This was until 1953
AMERICAN ISLAND

On Sept. 17, 1804, Lewis & Clark camped on the west bank below the island and passing it on the 18th said: "Passed an island about the middle of the river... the Astorians..."

A SPIRIT ROAD MYSTERY

C.M. WENDELBOE

AUTHOR OF DEATH THROUGH DESTINY'S DOOR